

Nonce Sonnet

Earth-Size, Just-Right Planets

8.8 billion planets found in Goldilocks zone orbiting suns
in just the right spot for life, can astound
all life forms in Milky Way's assumptions.

For forms like us need water and air.
Not too cold or too hot temperatures,
but there might be other ideas there
to host life for galactic adventures.

But then, if they are more advanced than us
why are they silent to our earthly calls?
Do they think we are not worth the ruckus?
Are they preparing proper protocols?

About one in five are like our sun—same size, color and age, planets with no name.
