

Australian Sonnet

Power Outage

Around the house clocks are blinking.
I'm not sure how to set them right.
I'll need flashlights when its night.
When it gets dark I am thinking flashes of light like fireflies
do not stop when power comes on.
Clocks wink at me, a tech moron
wondering where the power lies.
I re-set one clock without alarm.
Another clock just gets unplugged.
Stove button stops time. I'm humbugged.
I'm no clock doctor who does no harm.
Time faces me with slowed tick.
Hands replace the digital click.

Australian Sonnet:

1. 14 lines. No specified meter.
2. Rhyme Scheme: a-b-b-a-c-d-d-c-e-f-f-e-g-g