

Alphacouplets

An arrogant, amorous, agile angel
formed with earth and cloud—a love triangle.

An adoring, absent-minded, adolescent angel
wore her halo at a rakish angel.

Cantankerous, cranky, curious cat
battled with owners, fleas and gnat.

Bulbous, beautiful, blazoned blimp
burped, busted and became limp.

Timid, testosterone, trying turtle found his shell a hurdle to being fertile.

Scarlet, scowling, screaming sky
turned sodden earth to mud pie.

Catastrophic, clamorous, clobbered cloud
said, “Thunderhead, stop for crying out loud.”

Eloquent, elegant, egotistical egg pontificated too long upon a keg.

Alphacouplets: The couplets rhyme. You begin with a noun.
In these examples= angel, cat, blimp, turtle, sky, cloud, egg.

You put three words beginning with the same letter before the word and then you rhyme
the second line. You can join them together to make a longer poem.
